Advance Your Career With NIRI's Seminars

While many of you have been busy with earnings season, we want to remind you that NIRI has scheduled a series of professional development seminars this fall to help you further your IR skills.

On September 18-21, NIRI will host our highly rated "Fundamentals of IR" seminar at Boston's Westin Waterfront Hotel. This comprehensive seminar will provide an overview of all aspects of investor relations, including marketing, communication, and finance. If you have a colleague who would benefit from learning more about the IR function and best practices, please pass this link along. Also that week in Boston, NIRI will conduct a "Creating Successful Investor & Investor Day Presentations" seminar on September 22, followed by a "Writing Workshop for Investor Relations" on the 23rd.

In November, NIRI plans to hold three seminars in New York City in partnership with FinanceTalking. These include "Finance 101 for IR and Corporate Communications" on November 14; "Finance Essentials," an advanced two-day course on November 15-16; and "Think Like an Analyst" on the 17th.

NIRI also provides members with educational content that you can access without leaving your desk. You should check out NIRI's library of Archived Webinars. Most programs are no longer than one hour, and cover a wide variety of IR practice topics. Among the recently added webinar replays is: "Non-GAAP Disclosures: Applying the New SEC Staff Guidance," which may be a helpful resource as you finalize your second-quarter earnings release.

Finally, a reminder that this Saturday, July 30, is the final deadline to apply for the next Investor Relations Charter (IRC) examination in September. For more details, please visit the Certification page on NIRI's website.

With best regards,
